

MOTIVE

Motivation-driven benefits + intentional experiences

A new category that starts with why people move — then designs the daily perks and the high-impact retreats around it.

Benefits are still transactional. Experiences are still disconnected.

Edenred-scale platforms

Excellent at payment rails, scale, and compliance. Still largely start with the product (vouchers, cards, modules) rather than the individual motivator. Personalization remains surface-level.

Motivation & coaching tools

Powerful diagnostics exist, yet they rarely connect to the actual benefits budget or to real-world high-impact experiences that employees will remember for years.

Corporate retreats

Beautiful trips (Chile, Patagonia, etc.) are designed in isolation. They rarely use individual or team motivator data, so ROI is hard to prove and follow-through is weak.

Two large budgets, one missing bridge

€49B+

Estimated business volume
(2025)

60M+

Employees already on benefits platforms

Experiential rewards & retreats rising fast

18%

Productivity loss from unmotivated employees

The gap: companies spend on both benefits and offsites, yet the two rarely talk to each other. Motivation data sits unused. Experiences are designed without it. Employees get generic perks and generic trips.

Motive closes the loop: diagnose → personalize benefits → design intentional experiences → measure impact → repeat.

One platform. Two connected layers.

01 DAILY LAYER

Motivation-driven benefits

Hyper-personalized flexible benefits, lifestyle spending accounts, recognition, and wellness options that are recommended and funded according to each employee's actual motivators — not generic modules.

Powered by Motivation Map diagnostic + Edenred-level product knowledge.

02 PEAK LAYER

Intentional experiences

Curated corporate retreats and individual experiential rewards designed from the same motivator data. Signature destinations (starting with Chile) become high-emotion, high-ROI moments that reinforce the daily benefits story.

Delivered by the retreat specialist with Motivation Map alignment.

Three complementary strengths. One company.

Motivation Map

Founder of motivationmap.io

- Core human motives diagnostic
- Intentional travel as leadership catalyst
- 600+ clients, 57 countries
- Emotional clarity & aligned action

Benefits Insider

Currently at Edenred

- Deep product & market knowledge
- Buyer pain points & sales motion
- Compliance & platform realities
- Network inside the category leader

Retreat Delivery

Corporate retreat specialist

- Proven Chile tour product
- Operational excellence
- Experience design craft
- Scalable destination network

From motivator to memory in four steps

- 1 Diagnose

Employees and teams complete the Motivation Map. Core motivators, current energy, and engagement gaps are revealed.
- 2 Personalize

Benefits recommendations, lifestyle spending categories, and recognition styles are matched to the map. HR sees clear allocation logic.
- 3 Experience

High-impact moments (group retreats or individual rewards) are designed from the same data. Chile Signature is the first product.
- 4 Measure & Loop

Post-experience surveys feed back into the platform. Motivation scores, retention, and engagement lift become visible.

Motivation Map is the operating system

Not another personality test. A practical map of what actually drives energy, engagement, and performance — and how well those drivers are currently being met.

Relationship

Defender – security

Friend – belonging

Star – recognition

Achievement

Builder – material gain

Director – control

Expert – knowledge

Growth

Creator – create

Spirit – freedom

Searcher – meaning

Signature Odyssey — Chile

The first fully motivator-aligned corporate experience product. Turns an existing strong itinerary into a strategic benefits & culture tool.

What the trip becomes

- Atacama or Patagonia focus (or combined)
- Pre-trip Motivation Map for every participant
- Agenda modules matched to team motivator profile
- Wellness + purpose + recognition elements
- Post-trip integration into the benefits platform
- Clear business outcomes defined upfront

Why it works commercially

- Ready product (existing Chile deck)
- High perceived value & shareability
- Can be funded from benefits / recognition budgets
- Creates sticky platform usage after the trip
- Natural upsell into broader destination catalog
- Differentiation no pure benefits player has

Recurring platform + high-margin experiences

Platform SaaS

Per-employee monthly fee for Motivation Map access, personalized benefits engine, and engagement tools. High retention, predictable revenue.

Benefits Transaction

Interchange / admin fees on lifestyle spending accounts and flexible benefits spend. Scales with usage.

Experience Packages

Higher-margin planning & delivery fees on Signature Odysseys and individual experiential rewards. Chile as first product.

Enterprise & Advisory

Custom team mapping, leadership programs, and multi-destination roadmaps for larger clients.

Where we win against the category leader

Dimension	Edenred today	Motive
Starting point	Product / voucher / card	Individual & team motivators
Personalization depth	Flexible modules & wallets	Diagnostic → recommendation loop
High-emotion moments	Limited / partner-dependent	Owned Signature Experiences
Chile / retreat product	Not core	Flagship, motivator-aligned
Insider knowledge	The incumbent	One partner still inside
Motivation science	Engagement surveys	Motivation Map at the core

Start focused. Expand from proof.

Phase 1

0–6 months

- Finalize brand & packaging
- Productize Chile Signature with Motivation Map pre/post
- Pilot with 3–5 companies via existing networks
- Refine diagnostic → benefits → experience loop

Phase 2

6–18 months

- Launch core platform (SaaS + benefits engine)
- Add 2–3 additional Signature destinations
- Build case studies on engagement & retention lift
- Hire first commercial roles

Phase 3

18–36 months

- Scale platform across key European markets
- Expand experience catalog + individual rewards
- Explore selective partnerships or white-label
- Position for Series A or strategic interest

Next steps

1. Align on company name, equity split, and roles
2. Lock the Chile Signature package (itinerary + Motivation Map integration)
3. Identify 3 pilot companies from existing networks
4. Decide MVP scope for the platform vs. services-first approach
5. Schedule weekly partner working sessions for 90 days